the usclessness and impropriety of an alteration by their author.

This new medicine, called "Dr. Sappington's Febrifuge and Ague P'ills improved," is prepared by a Dr. I. S. Rowley, who lives in White Pigeon, St. Joseph county, Michigan, who, having been foiled in sil his previous undertakings, wherever he has lived, in accumulating a fortune, as I have been credibly informed, has tried his own name until he himself (it would seem) has lost and given up all hopes of success under it—now throws his actions under the garb and name of another distinguished throughout the country for having prepared a medicine unequalcountry for having propared a medicine unequal-led and unrivalled.

In order more fully to carry out the deception and put it forth to the world with the impression that it is an improvement by the author of Doctor John Sappington's Anti-Fever Pills, Dr. I. S. Rowley has appointed Chapman Yates, Esq., of White Pigeon, who lives but a few doors from Dr. R., to be General Agent for the sale of his modicine.

among many others, testify:

By reason of having been severely afflicted with the Fever and Ague in my family for a considerable time, I tried all the various popular remedies (Doctor Sappington's Anti-Fever Pills among the rest,) without success—I was finally induced to try the medicine called Doctor Sappington's Vegetable Febrifegs and Ague Pills Improved, by which every monther of my family (five in number) were immediately and entirely restored to health—and having witnessed its effects in numerous other cases. This may certify that myself and five others of my family have used Doctor John Sappington's Anti-Fever Pills as a remedy for the ague or intermittent fever, and although we strictly adhered to the directions, instead of relieving us, sensibly injured us all; they were also used by many of my immediate neighbors whose sentiments I also express in regard to them.

S. Rowley has appointed Chapman Yates, Esq., of White Pigeon, who lives but a few doors from Dr. R., to be General Agent for the sale of his modicine.

The counterfeit medicine may be easily known—they are neatly put up in boxes nearly square, with a label pasted on the outside with "Dr. Sappington's Febrifuge and Ague Pills improved," on it, and by opening the box will be found three different kinds of pills in it, a white, brown and red.

Whereas Dr. John Sappington's Anti-Fever Pills are put up in small round paper boxes, with John Sappington's name put at the bottom of each prescription, with Joel H. Haden's certification of the village of the village; of the village, the description of the box, neither of which are put to the spurious article.
